

Styling: big and small data in Corpus Stylistics

Workshop convenors:

Beatrix Busse

University of Heidelberg

Anna Čermáková

Charles University, Prague

9.00 - 9.30	Introduction: Beatrix Busse & Anna Čermáková
9.30 - 10.15	Michael Toolan University of Birmingham	The changing discourse of tax-paying and tax-avoiding in the London Times and Daily Mail : how can this be demonstrated and how does corpus linguistic pattern-detection help?
10.15 - 11.00	Eva Maria Gomez-Jimenez University of Birmingham	Ideology in press: on changing attitudes to maternity leave in the Times and Daily Mail
11.00 - 11.15	Break
11.15 - 12.00	Michaela Mahlberg & Viola Wiegand University of Birmingham	Speech in fiction and real spoken language
12.00 - 12.45	Imogen Cohen University of Amsterdam	Tropes in translation: a qualitative and quantitative analysis of Dutch creative tropes and their English translations using big data
12.45 - 13.45	Lunch
13.45 - 14.30	Thomas Haider Department of Language & Literature, MPI for Empirical Aesthetics & Alexis Palmer Department of Linguistics, University of North Texas	A functional stylistics for register and genre classification in German and English
14.30 - 15.15	Susan Reichelt Cardiff University	A sociolinguistic approach to styling and characterization in fictional dialogue
15.15 - 15.45	Break
15.45 - 16.30	Peter Stockwell University of Nottingham	Tracing subliminal ambience through cognitive corpus stylistics
16.30– 16.45	Conclusion	