

Advisory Board Meeting May 2009

Ahead of the annual Advisory Board Meeting in November, it was felt that the Board should come together earlier in the year in order to meet the new Vice Chancellor Professor David Eastwood and the new Head of School Professor David Dickinson. The meeting provided a useful forum for both to express their vision for the Business School going forward and to announce new academic posts and plans to increase our employer interface resources and to redouble the efforts made for our postgraduate students in this area.

New areas of research development were also announced in:

- Financial, Economic and Spatial Regeneration Public Policy/Business Interface
- Globalisation and Consumption Communities
- Management Governance and Performance in the Knowledge Economy
- Energy, Sustainability and Development

The Board spoke candidly about what the School needed to do to achieve recognition in these areas and develop them further.

The Board meets with new Vice Chancellor David Eastwood (sitting left) Friday 8th May 2009.
